HOSPITAL ELECTION TO BE HELD NEXT TUESDAY, NOV. 28

Next Tuesday, November 28, is hospital election day in Western Palm Beach county. The county has been put to a great deal of expense to call and make preparations for the election. It is your duty, as a citizen of this area, to take advantage of the opportunity to cast a ballot on the question. Whether you vote for or against the proposition—it is your vote to vote. If the proposal carries—or if the proposal is killed—don't sit idly by and fail to participate in the election. If you don't vote you won't have any kick coming in future years—no matter what the outcome of the election.

TWO THANKSGIVING DAYS FOR SOME BUT ONLY ONE FOR GLADES RESIDENTS

Residents of the Lake Okechobee farming section seem to be satisfied with one Thanksgiving holiday this year. Next Thursday—November 30—will be celebrated by people who live on the shores of Lake Okechobee. The bank will be closed and stores will observe their usual holiday closing hours. No special program has been planned for any section of the Glades. It will be another Thanksgiving day on which the people of this area will be grateful to an all-wise Creator for the blessings of life.

VISIT YOUR LOCAL STORES FOR THOSE CHRISTMAS GIFTS THIS YEAR

There are only a few weeks left before Christmas. It isn't too early to begin thinking about that raft of gifts you'll have to buy. And when you start looking around for them—be sure and visit your local stores first. You'll be agreeably surprised at the arrangement of the Lake Region merchants are making this year to take care of your Christmas shopping needs. Why not give the local merchant a break this season—buy your needs from him. He's the sort of a fellow who will appreciate your business.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE POST-TIMES ON A SPLENDID MAIL-AWAY EDITION

Last Sunday's issue of the Palm Beach Post-Times was the annual mail-away edition. One word will describe it. The edition was "sell". The folks who produced the edition are due a great big round of hearty applause for their efforts. Folks up north, who received copies, will most certainly find out many interesting things about the Palm Beaches and Palm Beach county. Every section of the county was represented in the splendid articles and the Lake Okechobee region came in for its share of favorable publicity. The issue was a credible job and to those who manufactured such an outstanding mail-away edition—we say, congratulations.

Why Thanksgiving Turkey?

Why do we have turkey for Thanksgiving? The usual answer to such a question is because the New England colonists ate turkey on the Thanksgiving day. There is much of truth in this, but certainly the tradition of Thanksgiving goes back to that colonial beginning, but the Pilgrim Fathers were not the first persons on this continent to find out how good turkey was to eat.

Long before the white men had come to live in America the Indians had learned that turkey is a fine dish for a gala occasion. In the southwestern part of the present United States and in Mexico the cliff dwellers and other aboriginal tribes used the meat of the turkey for their ceremonial feasts. The birds were wild but the Indians learned to catch and tame them so they could be fattened before they were killed. The wild turkeys roamed over Arizona, western New Mexico and southern Colorado, as well as Mexico.

After the coming of the Spaniards turkeys were sent to European markets—that is where they gained their name. The merchants, who were mostly Hebrews, thought that this new bird was a kind of peacock, which was "tukki". More or less constant use of this term resulted in the English word turkey.

The turkey is peculiarly an American bird. No other country has a similar fowl. Wherever turkeys are raised today, and they have been introduced into many countries, the ancestral stock came from America. This is one reason why it is fitting that the turkey should be associated with Thanksgiving. The turkey is a peculiarly American feast. Like the cliff dwellers, we use domesticated fowls and our feast has also a certain ceremonial significance.

When the Puritans desired to celebrate their first abundant harvest in Plymouth in 1621 hunters were sent into the woods to secure turkeys for the dinner. The colonial record says: "That year there was also a great store of wild turkeys." At first these beautiful birds were plentiful everywhere but they were timid and fled inland so that after 1690 no more records are found of them in New England, but they were still sold for fourpence apiece.

These wild turkeys were gold and purple bronze and much larger than our domestic birds. They could easily outrun a man and when flying traveled at a rate of 50 miles an hour. They were awkward in flight but ran with an easy graceful motion. One colonial writer told of seeing a flock of three hundred near the Chesapeake which weighed 30 or 40 pounds each and no less than an authority than William Penn says that turkeys weighing 30 pounds sold in his colony for a shilling. Ornithologists say that turkeys were plentiful around the Great Lakes until 1875. These wild birds were easily distinguished from the tame fowl by the rich chestnut brown tips on their tail feathers.—Our Dumb Animals.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

A post-war year ago I met one of the staff of the Florida Observer I paid my first visit to St. Petersburg and I want to tell you that at those days a journey from Tampa to the Ridge Section was an event. Only the brave and courageous would attempt it. For the trip involved a full day's journey over winding and bad roads, through swampy land, a rough and rugged road that called for the utmost from both car and driver.

I remember well, especially well, the first time I made the trip. I had just returned from the journey and had a Model T checked and re-checked, lighting all the bulbs and no. 100, let me say, and I had a couple of spare tires and a full set of tools, a spare lamp and a spare oil can.

There was a small oil road from Tampa to Palm City, but from there on it was just a hard and dusty road. There were no lights on the steering wheel. You just drove on, into the mud and rain, and the road was a real test of both car and driver.

Festival Is Planned For Blue Devil And Wildcat Encounter

WPB Merchants Plan Big Day For Supporters Of Hobsonmen

A gala celebration is planned in West Palm Beach for Thursday, December 7, when the Pahokee High school football team goes to town for the Pahokee-Palm Beach game. The event is sponsored by the merchants' association and will be known as Glades Festival day, according to William Porter, secretary. Festivities will begin at 2 p. m., with a parade, followed by a barbecue at Wright field at 5:30 p. m., when all visitors from the Everglades section will be guests of local businessmen.

A football battle between Pahokee and the Wildcats is always a choice morsel for sports fans throughout the county, and it is expected that the game will attract the largest crowd of the season.

Florida issued 28,285 fishing licenses last year and collected $67,617 in fees. The number of licenses issued shows a marked increase over the previous year, indicating greater interest in sport fishing.

Fort Pierce Holds Hobsonmen To Tie In A Hectic Battle

Bit Bebe And Company Hold Blue Devils To 13-13 Score

Lady Luck smiled on Coach Hobson's Pahokee Blue Devils in the last half of an encounter with Fort Pierce last Friday night on Lair field in Pahokee. To say that Lady Luck only smiled is putting it just a bit mild. To the majority of the fans it really looked like she laughed right out loud.

It all happened when the Fort Pierce aggregation trotted out a small chap by the name of Bit Bebe who wouldn't weigh more than 150 pounds soaking wet to amass 12 points during the first half of the battle while the Blue Devils were chalking up exactly nothing. When the half ended looked bad for the Glades gridiron. In fact it looked like there was to be another loss chalked up for the crippled legend of Hobson.

But, Lady Luck was kind. Very kind indeed. In the third quarter the local aggregation made up its mind that something had to be done. And that something was done.

Near the end of the third period, Pearce returned a punt 70 yards to the Pahokee 48 and from there Knut and Dell worked their way to the Fort Pierce eight. The Eagles held for three plays, and a fourth down pass was touched by an Eagle defender, but P was knocked into the hands of Bebe, who gained a first down on the two yard line. Then Dell went over center to score, and Knut went over right guard for the point. And the score read: Fort Pierce 13, Pahokee 7.

Late in the quarter Fort Pierce forced Pahokee back to the Blue Devil 30 and Calvin Pearce, in punt formation, fumbled the ball on his own six, picked it up too late to kick and ran, finally ending up after a 94-yard scramble with the touchdown which tied the score. Dell plunged just short of the winning point.

After that Fort Pierce launched an aerial attack which threw fear into the hearts of the Blue Devil supporters, for the Eagles clicked on three passes for gains of 32, 15 and 23 yards, carrying to the Pahokee five yard line when the game ended.

Homestead Happy Again As Sunshine Peeks Thru Clouds

Lower Daze Farmers Are Anxious To Get In The Fields After Rains

The sky brightened Thursday morning, the sun shone through the gloomy, rain-filled clouds of the past few weeks, optimism over the nation's largest winter vegetable region took an upsurge as growers set their great planting operations into action, and thousands of laborers got back into the fields.

Thirty days later than that of the average season of recent years are the 1939 plantings. Torrential rains drowned out the early tomatoes and then the wet weather hung on to delay the plantings.

In general, the growers view the delayed season with little concern. Naturally, delay in planting will mean delay in picking and marketing. Eighty day growing time will be needed for tomatoes and the greens and pinks will not begin to roll in any quantity before the middle of February while the shipping began just after Christmas last year. Yet the prices received over the season average, no doubt will compare favorably this season with those of past seasons perhaps the expected low price period in February will be eased.

The ground was still a little wet but almost every grower had his acres in the field, this season, 22,000 acres are being planted in tomatoes, 7,000 in potatoes.

Potato planters, three weeks delayed, with their power equipment will run twenty-four hours a day. It won't take long to drop the carloads of seed potatoes.

Preparing land is in progress for the third major crop of the area, beans. An estimated 2,000 acres will be planted. — Redland District News-Herald.

Turned To Acting

Gordon Oliver, seen as a young lawyer in Columbia's thrilling drama, "A Woman Is The Judge," is currently portraying what he might have been if he had not found the footlights more interesting than legal tomes.

After graduation from Oregon State College, Oliver enrolled in the law school of the University of Southern California, with the intention of becoming an attorney but he was engaged to play a part in the stage play of "Elizabeth the Queen" and never returned to the USC campus.

Oliver appears with Frieda Inescort, Otto Kruger, Rochelle Hudson, Mayo Melbold, Arthur Lort and Walter Fenner in "A Woman Is The Judge."
